Introduction

The publication of the third volume of the All England Law Reports for 1976 marks the completion of 41 years of continuous law reporting. The Consolidated Tables and Index 1936–1976 constitute a complete and systematic index to all the cases reported in the series during those years. The index is published in three volumes. The first contains: a table of cases reported and judicially considered; a table of practice directions and notes; a table of statutes judicially considered, and a table of words and phrases judicially considered. Further information concerning the use of the tables is given below. The second and third volumes contain the subject index. Information concerning the use of the subject index will be found in the introduction to volume 2.

Throughout the tables and subject index cases are cited by reference to year (in square brackets), volume (in bold type) and page; thus [1972] 2 177, indicates that the report of the case referred to begins on page 177 of volume 2 of the reports for the year 1972.

The table of cases reported and considered performs a dual function. It includes a complete list, in alphabetical sequence, of the names of all the cases reported in the All England Law Reports from 1936 to 1976. Accordingly, if the name of the case which is being sought is known, the report reference may be ascertained from this table. The absence of the name from the list indicates that the case is not reported in the series. Where a case has been reported more than once at different stages of the appeal process, the first reference given is that to the report of the judgment of the lowest court in which the case was heard. References to the decision of the appellate court is given on the following line preceded by the annotation 'Affirmed' or 'Reversed'. Accordingly where it is desired to find the report of the final decision of the appellate court in a particular case, the reference following the annotation is the appropriate one. For example, a reference to Absalom v Talbot will show that the judgment of the King's Bench Division was reported at page 269 of volume 2 of the reports for 1942; that the decision was affirmed by the Court of Appeal, a report of whose decision appears at page 589 of volume 1 of 1943; but that the decision of the Court of Appeal was reversed by the House of Lords whose decision is reported at page 642 of volume 1 of 1944.

The titles of cases which proceed on appeal to the House of Lords often change. Thus the case reported as Gallie v Lee in the Chancery Division and Court of Appeal was reported as Saunders (Executrix of the estate of Rose Maud Gallie (decd) v Anglia Building Society (formerly Northampton Town and County Building Society) in the House of Lords. Such cases are indexed under the title used in the House of Lords with a cross-reference entry under the title used in the lower courts.

The secondary function of the table of cases reported and considered is to provide, by way of annotations to the appropriate entries, the names and references of subsequent cases reported in the series in which the cases listed in the table have been judicially considered, ie applied, distinguished, overruled and so on. The table may therefore be used, not only to find the reference for a case, the name of which is known, but also to ascertain, where appropriate, the names and references of subsequent cases which should also be considered before the case in question is relied on as an authority. In addition to cases in the main series, the table includes, in the appropriate alphabetical sequence, names of cases reported in the All England Law Reports Reprint 1558–1935 which have subsequently been judicially considered in cases reported in the main series. The table does not, however, contain a complete list of cases reported in the Reprint. A separate index volume exists for that series.

A similar table of cases reported and considered will also appear in the supplementary annual tables and index for 1977 and subsequent years; reference should also be made to that table to ascertain whether a case reported before 1977 has been judicially considered in a case reported after 1976.

Following the table of cases reported and considered is a table of practice directions and notes published in the reports. Since it is not possible to identify these by their titles in the same way as reported cases, they have been arranged in alphabetical sequence by reference to their subject-matter. They are also covered by appropriate references in the subject index in volumes 2 and 3.

The table of statutes judicially considered is principally concerned with United Kingdom statutes which are listed alphabetically and, in the case of statutes whose short titles differ only in the year of enactment, chronologically. The table also contains sub-tables of rules of court, statutory instruments, Commonwealth statutes and other relevant documents. A full list is set out in the table of contents which appears on the following pages. The statutes listed in the table are those on which the relevant cases were decided. As a result, many of the statutes listed in the table are ones which have subsequently been repealed; very often the repealed statutes have been re-enacted in the same or similar terms and the cases remain authorities on the construction of the re-enacted provisions. Tables of correspondence between the new and old repealed provisions will be found in the volumes of Halsbury's Statutes of England.

The table of words and phrases considered lists, in alphabetical sequence, words and phrases, taken principally from statutes, which have been the subject of judicial construction and consideration in the reported cases. Where a word or phrase has been taken from a statute the relevant statutory provision is indicated in square brackets.
